

Do YOU Hear the Call of Economic Justice?

The election of 2022 has come and gone. There were mixed results in terms of the UCC's values as reflected in the biblical call for us to do justice and love kindness and mercy. So, with a new legislative session soon before us and new or renewed public policies being shaped and formed (for good and bad), now is the time for NH UCCers who want to be active in building up beloved community to join our Conference's Economic Justice Mission Group. We are inviting a new cadre of advocates and activists to join us in the public square and in our own faith communities in championing the common good and the call of human decency, civility and compassion.

We also need new energy as we live into the mandates of our Conference resolutions of the past decade that call us:

- * to stand in solidarity with our immigrant neighbors and those among us who are marginalized;
- * to champion state and federal policies calling for a minimum wage that is truly a living wage;
- * to halt efforts to privatize and "profitize" core public services that are essential to the public good;
- * and more!

To indicate your interest or simply to learn more about the NHCUCC Economic Justice Mission Group, email economicjustice.nhcucc@gmail.com -- or call Meriden Congregational Church Worker Justice Minister Gail Kinney at 603-381-7324.

Your voice matters -- and when we join our UCC voices as One for the cause of economic and social justice, we are indeed stronger together.
